

Hommage à Evelyne

Let the sun shine on you,...

I met our intrepid Evelyne during one of the international Conferences. It was in Edinburgh, in Scotland, in the early 1990's. Oh, what a meeting it was. After one of the scholarly presentations we hotly discussed the problem and ended up in the best restaurant in town, drinking the best wine on offer. This was quintessential Evelyne. I later learned.

We have been friends ever since, and loved her. We partook in Academic Tourism, as she called it, meeting during many Conferences, all over the world. She invited me to participate in so many. Through Evelyne I met interesting people, and because of her learned about and partook in new intellectual adventures. She shared with me ideas, her home, her friends. She was simply terrific.

I would like to honor our Evelyne: her generosity, her sense of humor, her laughter, her quick wit. Once, when visiting me in States and skiing in Sun Valley she decided to skip skiing on a cloudy and windy day. She announced that she is not a masochist, and will ski only when the sun was shining.

Let the sun shine on you, dearest Evelyne, wherever you are...
